All Seasons Hire Rush to Keep Server Room Cool over Xmas

When a large Facilities Management Group needed help during the Xmas holiday period, their National Portable Air Conditioning Supplier failed to respond to their call!

Things were getting hot in a central London server room due to a Fixed Air Conditioning break down. All Seasons Hire Commercial Director Andy Hamilton received the call for help at 3pm on Saturday December 27th; by 7pm things were back under control with the server room temperatures falling back to controllable levels Andy stated "I received a call from the Facilities Manager who told me that their normal Portable Air Conditioning supplier had failed to respond to the out of hours call; the server room temperature had risen to 42 degrees and things were getting dangerously hot. All Seasons Hire responded straight away delivering and installing five 22000 BTU Water Cooled Split Portable Air Conditioning units to the site. We installed the Portable Air Conditioning Units and within the hour temperature dropped by ten degrees". Andy went on to say "All Seasons Hire take great pride in delivering quality and timely customer service; in the hire industry our job is to respond to these types of call out and deliver Cooling or Heating solutions restoring normal operating conditions as soon as possible no matter what time of day or year! Server rooms are critical, failure to respond can result in devastating consequences; in some cases this type of failure can result in full scale disaster recovery.
